The New Librarian

Anna and Olaf are strolling through Arendelle with some books in their arms, heading to the town library. Whether going or coming, Anna is convinced that the best part of library trips with her favorite snowman is hearing about some of the unusual things he read. "Did you know squirrels can't burp?" asks Olaf. "No, I didn't," Anna answers with a giggle.

When they arrive at the library, Oddvar the librarian welcomes them warmly, but Anna notices that he looks concerned. "I'm sorry, but I have to close up for a few days," he explains. "It is time for my family's annual get-together, and everybody would be sad if I missed it."

The news disappoints Anna. The idea of a closed library makes her quite sad. "Perhaps someone could watch over all the books until you return," she suggests as Olaf picks his next read.

Oddvar doesn't seem too sure about Anna's suggestion. He can't think of anyone who would be willing to look after his precious books while he's away.

But Anna has a solution. "I know just the right candidate," she says. Then she tells Oddvar of someone trustworthy who adores reading, and who loves to share stories almost as much as he loves giving warm hugs. Olaf, who's flipping through a big book about animals, perks up at hearing such a familiar description. "I like that candidate," he says.

Oddvar agrees with him. “Those are indeed great qualities for a librarian,” he says. “Who is it? I’m really curious to know,” Olaf says full of excitement, while lifting a pile of books. “It’s you, Olaf!” Anna exclaims, opening her arms happily. “I’m sure you’ll be the best substitute librarian ever!”

“Me? Oh, yes, please! I would love to help Oddvar run the library!” Olaf exclaims, getting closer. “And he’s always got his nose in a book,” Anna says with a smile, noticing that the snowman is using his carrot nose as a bookmark. “Yes, sometimes I use it to save my place,” Olaf agrees, giggling happily.

Oddvar does not agree immediately and warns Olaf that running a library is not as simple as it might seem; it is actually quite a big responsibility. But in the end, the snowman's enthusiasm wins him over.

Happy and excited, Oddvar packs his bags and loads them on his wagon. Then he climbs aboard and snaps his reins, waving at Anna and Olaf. "Enjoy yourself! We'll take good care of your dear library," Anna reassures him as he drives out of town.

When Olaf goes back inside, he realizes that his fondest dream has just come true! He has the biggest collection of books in Arendelle and can read any one he wants, at any time! There is just one little problem... he doesn't know where to start.

Olaf begins with a book about snow and finds the most suitable location to read it. He sits in front of the window and flips through the pages, enjoying the warmth of the sun rays coming in through the glass.

Then he climbs a few cookbooks piled up like a stack of pancakes to read... a book on pancakes! “The best part is when you have to flip the pancake by tossing it in the air. This is so much fun!” he thinks with a smile.

After reading more recipes, Olaf builds a stack of books and climbs it to reach a volume about towers. As he stretches his arm, the stack teeters and totters, but the snowman manages to stand and accomplish his mission.

“I’m the strongest knight in the kingdom, and I’ll fight all the dragons on my path!” Olaf says, brandishing a mop. Olaf is having such a great time acting out what he’s reading that he doesn’t notice the children looking through the windows. They heard some strange noises and have come to investigate what their favorite snowman is doing inside the library.

Olaf invites the curious children to come in. "What are you doing, Olaf?" asks one child. "Reading!" he exclaims. "It's my favorite thing to do. Did you know that slugs have four noses?"

Then he hands each of them a book. Soon they are reading and discovering new things as well. "Did you know some snails have over fourteen thousand teeth on their tongue?" asks one girl.

"I just read that butterflies can taste with their feet!" says a boy, coming over with a huge book in his hands. Each day, more and more visitors come to the library, and Olaf greets them with a warm hug and a good book.

Anna visits the library every day and becomes more and more confident that Olaf is a great librarian. She's never seen the library so busy and all the children so enthusiastic. It's a pleasure to see them all become keen on reading!

Library Stop

Oddvar's library is a meeting place for all the Arendellians who love reading as much as Olaf. Today the snowman is returning his latest reads. Follow him and invite a friend: the first to return all their books wins!

How to Play

A game for two players. CUT OUT the tokens, die, and books from the inside back cover.

Each player starts with the same number of books, a pile for each color. Take turns rolling the die and moving the number of spaces shown. When you land on a book space, return a pile of books with the matching color by placing it on the table. Follow these instructions when you land on a special space:

YOUR OPPONENT
GIVES YOU 1
PILE OF BOOKS

GIVE 1 PILE OF BOOKS TO YOUR OPPONENT

And the winner is... the first player to return all of his or her books, or the player who has placed the most books on the table once you've both reached the end.

The Beauty of Nature

Elsa and Olaf love the great outdoors! Spending time in the fresh air is the perfect way to recharge your batteries, don't you think?

Strolling Together

It's a wonderful day in Arendelle, and the weather is too beautiful to stay indoors! Olaf is glad to take this horse for a walk to get some exercise. COLOR this happy scene!

Let's Go!

Colors in the Air

On warm days, colorful butterflies abound. How pretty they are! FOLLOW the squares to complete the other half of one of them. Then COLOR it IN!

Create a Scene!

Telling your friends thrilling stories is always lots of fun!
Make a cardboard TV and amaze them all!

You'll Need

- 2 CARDBOARD ROLLS FROM PLASTIC WRAP OR ALUMINUM FOIL
- 1 SMALL CEREAL BOX
- STRIP OF PAPER 20 X 11 cm
- GLUE STICK
- SAFETY SCISSORS
- PENCIL
- RULER
- TAPE

1 OPEN the box. Use a cardboard roll to DRAW four circles on the sides: two on top, the other two on the bottom. Cut out all four.

2 DRAW a 10 x 4 cm rectangle, and cut it out. Then CUT out the scenes from the inside back cover and GLUE them to the strip of paper.

3 TAPE the top part of the strip to one of the rolls, and the bottom to the other one. Then roll them up and insert them in the holes.

4 TAPE the box shut, then GLUE the decorations from the inside back cover and turn the rolls to let the scenes flow.

Feel the Rhythm!

Playing an instrument, along with singing and dancing, is a great way to spend your free time. Even Kristoff likes to cut a rug now and then!

A Concert in Arendelle

Arendellians love music! And every so often the area facing the castle becomes the site of an awesome concert. SPOT the ten differences between these two scenes, and COLOR IN a musical note for each one you find.

One morning, Anna goes to town to visit Olaf and see if he needs help, but when she reaches the library, she notices a long line waiting to go in: children, parents, and even people visiting from the nearest town want to meet Olaf and receive a warm hug and some reading advice from him. Anna rushes in to congratulate her friend.

"What do you think?" Olaf asks Anna as soon as she walks in. Anna looks around and realizes that the snowman has done some reorganizing. He grouped some books by the color of their covers. Towers of volumes rise high into the air, and a book rainbow creates a fun archway to run through. "It certainly is a unique way to arrange a library!" Anna exclaims.

At just that moment, Oddvar walks in the door and sees the scene. “Olaf, what have you done?” he exclaims as he looks all around, totally puzzled.

“He looks like he could use a hug,” Olaf whispers to Anna. “I’m not sure that’s the best idea right now...” Anna cautions him with a strained smile.

But the librarian walks toward Olaf with open arms and a big smile on his face. “This is... wonderful! Thank you so much for your amazing job!” he cries happily as he scoops up the snowman in a sincere warm hug of his own.

A Great Restyle

Olaf rearranged the library in a very original way. LOOK at the scene above and CHECK OFF only the five details that belong to it.

For the first day in forever, the library is full of children! Most have come to discover new surprising facts, and all of them want to check out books. They love Olaf's new book creations, but they also understand that the books have to be put back in order on the shelves if the kids want to find what they are seeking. Everyone offers to help.

Thanks to Olaf's great success at helping the townspeople discover new books, Anna decides to make her favorite snowman the library's official ambassador. Now he can share his huge love of great stories and help others discover the magic inside the library all the time. This new title makes Olaf the proudest snowman ever.

“As my first act as ambassador,” Olaf announces, “I think we should hold a big book festival. Festivals are my favorite!” Anna thinks that the snowman’s idea is just perfect and promises to help him.

The book festival is arranged in no time, and Anna, Kristoff, Elsa, and even Sven pitch in to help in any way they are able. They offer cookies to the young readers, read them stories, and give free reindeer rides to the library.

The whole village agrees the book festival is a novel idea and a great success! They plan to make the next one even more spectacular. “Did you know that there’s something even better than reading?” Olaf tells the kids. “Really? What is it?” they ask, looking curious. “It’s reading with friends!” he answers with a giggle.

One with Nature

Elsa finds peace of mind amid the snow-capped mountains. Riding the Water Nokk in the silence of the wide-open spaces is a passion that helps her feel free.
